WHAT FATE IS JUST AHEAD FOR YOU?
SPIN AT THE ZERO, AND THE FUTURE YOU'LL VIEW!

Numbers are not just inert, abstract things we use to quantify how much, how many, how far, how large. Numbers are nothing less than the language of the Universe. Each number carries with it a whole paragraph of meaning, and through this language, the Universe can speak to us.

To Use This Chart

Pick up your spinning-object, a top, a coin or a token, cup it in your hands, clear your mind, and ask Whomever you choose to please guide the top to the correct answer or answers. If you want to 'charge' the top to act in your best interests, and surround it with protection from any evil influences, you may do that.

The default location to place your top is on the zero in the middle of the chart, because 0 is the number of God/Tao. If you feel pulled to place your top in another location on the chart to begin with, then certainly do so. Otherwise, place your spinning-object on the zero, ask your question out-loud and with conviction, then give it a spin. Doesn't matter if you spin it with your left hand or right, clockwise or counter-clockwise. Spin it in the way which feels right to you, for that will be the right way.

Observe the spinner's track as it moves across the chart. Does it stay on the zero, or in that same area of the chart? Congratulations, seeker! There's nothing you need to know or be concerned about now. You're in tune with God/Tao and doing what you should be doing, being right where you should be. Either that, or Whomever you asked to influence the reading can't answer that question right now, or doesn't want with to communicate via this medium. Does it head in a particular direction and stay on one number? That's your answer, and a very definitive one, too.

Does it touch on two or three numbers before spinning to a stop? Your answer is a combination of all the numbers it touched, and possibly in that order of occurrence or importance. Does your spinning-object hit one or more numbers, then head for the yes? Then the message is affirmative that this is the case. Does your spinning object hit the no at some point its travels? Then you will have to carefully discern which numbers it hit were true, and which were false. Try to phrase it as a sentence. Ex.: 'This, this, & this, not this or this.'

What Sort of Questions May I Ask of It?

This will, to some degree, be dictated by the nature of the Glossary of Meanings to follow, but here are a few ideas for questions you might ask:

1. What do I need to know for my life right now?/Give me an overview of my life right now.
2. What is coming in the near future for me?
3. What do I need to watch-out-for in the near future?
4. I'm considering (fill in the blank with decision). What will happen if I take this course of action?
5. (Fill in the blank) is considering (fill in the blank). What will happen if he/she does so?
6. Give me an overview of (fill in the blank)'s life right now. What are they currently experiencing, or focusing-on? Where are they headed if things don't change?

Glossary of Number-Meanings

It is possible your spinner will pass over more than one number. In those cases, you will need to string the various numbers it lands on into one comprehensive message. To help you with this, the following is offered:

1—time for you to start something, to take the initiative, to declare your independence, to strike out on your own, even if it means standing against the entire group. This is the number of someone who starts their own business, or is the CEO of another's. This number could indicate you need some alone-time to do some thinking or to get your thoughts organized. This is the number of individuation, independence, leadership, and attainment.

2—this signals a time to wait, and to be open to receiving; to react, rather than initiate. It may be possible to accomplish a certain task or goal, only if you do it in a partnership, or with the aid of someone else. This can indicate a time or situation to put relationships first, and to be cooperative, rather than combative or independent. Be open to letting others give to you. Let the world come to you; don't go out with a stick to flush it from the bushes. this number message can be hard to take, if you are used to taking the initiative. Nonetheless, 2 indicates that's not the right approach here.

3—creative expression of some kind is the dominant meaning of 3. doesn't matter if it's writing, art, or music. If you are facing a problem of some sort, this number is suggesting you may have to take a creative approach to solving it. Sociability and enjoying life is also indicated by number three; this isn't the time to be weighted down with responsibility, it's time to kick up your heels and have fun! As three is the joining of numbers 1 and 2, this could mean you need to balance the male and female side of your nature.

4—order, structure, foundation, limitations, service, and work are the qualities of four. It may be time to get organized, to get to work and put some serious effort into achieving something, to accept certain limitations on your ability to act in the world. If you're asking about the future, it may not be a pleasant task or reality ahead of you, but work is involved, and somebody's gotta do it. It may be time to lay the ground-work for a much-bigger structure to come. Your future progress will depend on how well you get things organized and lay the ground-work now. The time may have come to ask, "How can I be of service to others?" Four is also the number of a crossroad; there may be a crucial decision to make, one which will determine how things progress from here on out.

5—change, freedom, travel, and innovation are all qualities of five. The change may either be planned for and expected, or it may come upon you unexpectedly and with no effort on your part, but change is coming. It could be as permanent as a move to a new house or job, or as temporary as a trip. Five can indicate one's masculine and feminine energies are out of balance, and are demanding rebalancing. If you don't do anything to consciously address this, the energies will balance themselves, and you may or may not like the result. Five is also about the responsible use of freedom. Are you using your freedom wisely and productively? Be prepared to be flexible and change with circumstances when five is the answer to your question.

6—connection, responsibility, love, balance, and the family are all attributes of six. It may be a good time to establish connections or re-connections with people. Look at the shape of the number six—it's a bottom-heavy number. You may feel weighted-down with more than your fair-share of the responsibility, either on the home or work-front. You may be the 'glue' that holds everything else together. You may feel like something or some one is dragging you down. See if you can re-balance tasks and responsibilities, so you aren't feeling so burdened.

7—spirituality, study, analysis, understanding, the scholar, the scientist, the occultist, the mystery, are all associations with the number seven. Seven is, in its own way, as independent as the number one, but in a more introverted way than the number one. Whatever circumstance you're facing, seven suggests attention, study, fact-gathering, analysis, and forming a working-hypothesis may be the answer, or an important activity in this. The answer may be returning to school for further education. Spirituality may be in focus now as a way of understanding, comprehending or processing some puzzling or upsetting life event. Indeed, approaching the matter from a spiritual or philosophical viewpoint may work more effectively than taking the standard scientific approach.

8—material success, material satisfaction, the successful businessperson, the efficient administrator or executive, trade, and infinity are all attributes of the number eight. This could indicate a successful career in business for oneself or as an administrator or executive in a large organization. The number of material wealth, it could indicate a life period when all one's material wants are satisfied, and it looks like it'll be that way forever. A trade which mutually-benefits both sides. Lay the number eight on its side, and you have the symbol for infinity, as it appears on a hand-held camera. Have you ever seen a toy track for cars or trains? They're often laid-out in a figure-8 pattern. For this reason, the number eight is also associated with the concept of resonance, strength and energy. There may be a message here to keep your energy high and flowing, to tend to business so things aren't getting bogged-down by obstacles in the way.

9—selflessness, humanitarianism, idealism, taking a broader view, and completion are attributes of the number nine. Creativity is also associated with the number nine, since nine is 3×3 , but it may remain latent. You may be called upon to be selfless and make a sacrifice for the greater good, to be the bigger person and do something generous without expecting compensation. If this prospect is annoying, try seeing the issue from a bird-eye view, a higher perspective. You may realize why, in the longer-run, this selfless act is called-for. The presence of nine suggests someone who may be considering getting involved in humanitarian or philanthropic pursuits. There may be a creative-bent to this, as in creatively solving problems for the greater good.

11—illumination, peace, psychic forces, intuition, and a high-level of spirituality and receptivity are attributes of the number eleven. This number has also been called 'the Lightning Rod.' People like this number are often high-strung, visionary, dramatic, and overwhelmed. They can be capable of great accomplishment, but there is a nervous tension present which is palpable. You may be called upon to tap into your intuition, open up to God/Goddess/Tao for inspiration and advice on how to proceed. To seek peace should be the highest priority now. Someone may be considering a religious career of some sort, or join an organization with a peaceful mission. Try to tune-in to what Universe may be trying to tell you, for it is trying to communicate with you.

22—the global good, that which is of universal benefit, the master builder. Fours build houses, twenty-twos build pyramids. You may be involved in, or asked to be a part of, something much larger than you, which has global and long-lasting implications. A greatly-broadened perspective may be called-for here. Ask 'what will benefit the greatest number of people?' then act accordingly. You may have a larger destiny to play on the world's stage than you think. Think big, and help establish a long-lasting structure or institution that will benefit people for generations to come.

33—the Christ number, also the Going-Home number, 'home' being in a spiritual sense. You may be feeling invisible when this number is chosen by the spinning-tool which oddly, can make you a target. People do not feel neutral about you, or what you do; you garner either praise or criticism, you innovator you! But for better or worse, you are making an impact. This is a turn-the-other-cheek number, but it may also mean people want to crucify or victimize you. Remember this life is all about Going Home some day. So this number could be calling upon you to connect with your true, spiritual family, and to create a domestic environment which reflects your spiritual home. A very creative, beautiful and joyous energy about this number.

44—excess, workaholism, the pack-mule, addiction, martyrdom, and going to an extreme are all qualities 5 of this number. You may be such a hard worker and carry things out so competently, people figure you can handle extra-loads and give it to you. This number indicates there is an excess in some sort of activity, a too-muchness of some sort, and a re-balancing and re-energizing is desperately-needed. Addiction can take a great variety of forms, and if the spinning-tool has spun or landed on this number, that may well be the case in this situation. A MAJOR readjustment is required here. If you don't, the energy will run down, leaving exhaustion, crankiness, and a 'dead' feeling inside. Another danger with this number is, some people may be seeing you as too organized, too pragmatic, and thus, narrow-minded and inflexible. This may be wrong, of course, but know this is how you may be perceived here.

55—a great or fundamental change is indicated here, and not just a series of small ones. Don't just be satisfied with a few superficial, cosmetic changes in your life, when the change need to make is a big one. If you've been staving-off having to make a serious change in your life, then this number may foretell that God/Goddess/Tao/Universe will make it for you, because your destiny requires you to move on down the road here, and get going in the direction of your life goals. In personality, this number can indicate a person who is independent, very changeable, impatient, impetuous, fearless, rushing-in-where-angels-fear-to-tread, out-of-control, resistant-to-listening and no great respecter-of-boundaries. You can't change this person, but you may be able to make good use of their talents. They are certainly the life of the party.

66— regression, inward-turned energies, going through the motions, unconscious and unaware. This can be the number of the person who over-spends on toys, but can't cover the rent, the one who always needs bailing out in times of trouble. This is the homemaker consumed with child care and domestic chores without any other kind of interaction or activity. This number can indicate someone who was abused as a child, or subjected to great pressure by their family. There may be great (submerged) anger here. If 33 is the crucified number, 66 is the crucifier number. This is a very challenging number; you can either fix things or break them. You can heal or harm with your words. Finally, sixty-six is the number of morbidity; if one's internal demons aren't consciously-faced, expressed, and dealt-with, it can lead to stagnation or even death in some form.

77—transcendence is the key meaning of this number. This is a double-dose of spirituality which brings change at the spiritual level, deep inside the mind. This is change which bubbles up from deep within the self and impacts our lives in the physical world, since true change starts from within and expands outward. If the spinning tool lands on, or passes over this number, then know that someone is undergoing great internal changes. They may be learning to rise above whatever challenges, issues or difficulties they are facing. A great internal transformation like this can even cause a person to change their religious or spiritual affiliation as a result.

88—instability is the key meaning of this number. Energies are seriously out of balance in this situation. Turmoil, disaster and other misfortunes will result if significant changes aren't made. The best solution to bad state of affairs this is to turn to your spirituality for aid. Consider: $8 + 8 = 16$ (which is The Tower number), and $1 + 6 = 7$. "There is no such thing as a problem without a gift for you in its hands" said Richard Bach's fictional The Messiah's Handbook. It could be the instability this number portends was all just a plan by God/Goddess/Tao/Universe to force you to explore and rely-on your spirituality, values or philosophy of life.

99—Stagnation. This is the number of the spiritual couch potato, one who has tuned-out to their reality. Nothing is moving, nothing is flowing, nothing is progressing, nothing is being completed as it should. Heavy burdens but not tackling them. The message here is clear, and serious: get up and get moving! The unused potato eventually rots and draws nasty things to it, too. Take urgent and drastic action to get your life, or a certain part of it, up and moving again. Make a change, do a cleaning-out, find a new interest, set a new goal. Turn off the television, the radio, the computer, or your phone and live your life, instead of watching it pass you by.

111—this number is concerned with energy and how you use it. 111 can indicate there is a lot of unfocused energy zipping around the room, unharnessed, unfocused, un-channeled and undirected. This is the number of the child with nothing in particular to do or they're 'bored', so they're zipping all over the place. Someone is possibly feeling pulled in several different directions at once. Or they're running themselves ragged, trying to get to the bottom of a seemingly-endless 'To Do List.' This number demands the plagued individual pause for a moment, re-assess their priorities, then focus their energies where it really counts. $1 + 1 + 1 = 3$, so joy is possible here, but there needs to be more organization and efficiency in order to better-utilize all this energy. Idea: since 111 reduces to a 3, if the problem is a child with too much energy, why not get them doing something creative? Art, writing, dance?

222—this is unity, and the global family ($2 + 2 + 2 = 6$, the number of connection and family). Take a look at how you live in this world, and how it impacts others in the global family. Acknowledge how you affect others, make changes accordingly and where you can, forgive yourself, then ask others' forgiveness. Develop compassion, help others over their hurdles, and forgive yourself when you trip over yours. Take a look at the big picture here, a broader perspective. Connect with others, help them connect to the larger, global family. Try also to spend more time with your own family, and invite others in. Open up to the gives the Universe sends you, and remember to share them with others. Finally, remember to be grateful for the good things in your life.

333—burnout. The creative flow has burnt itself out. You're covering the same ground over and over with no progress, you're spinning your wheels. Or you could be dashing from one obligation/task to another, without fulfilling any of them or bringing them to fruition. $3 + 3 + 3 = 9$, which is the number of completion, so the way out of this burn-out is to stop and come to center for a moment. Look at your 'To Do' list, prioritize them, then complete just one. Then complete another. Then complete another. Look at your situation creatively; can you change or revise what your doing, so you're not feeling burn-out? Arrange for some social time with family and friends. Take a break, a day-trip, a week-end away, or an actual vacation/holiday, some change from the norm. These solutions will go a long way toward curing burn-out.

444—development, growth and mastery are all the message of this number. Three fours indicate toughness; there is an enormous load of work here, but in this case it's good, because the work is well-directed and highly-productive. The end result of all this work is growth and mastery. Please note, $4 + 4 + 4 = 12$ and $1 + 2 = 3$. This is the number of the figure-skater who, after years of training, participates in the Winter Olympics, or the piano-student who, after years of practice and study, becomes a professional concert pianist. The individual indicated by this number may be called-upon to work hard at something, but they have the capability, and the end-result will be worth it.

555—great spiritual growth and great change is what this number portends. There could be changes going on in your astral and etheric bodies, as the result of coming into contact with your spiritual friends in family—either in the flesh or via the mind. $5 + 5 + 5 = 15$ which is the number of a spiritual family—12 spirit guides or angels, plus God and Goddess, plus Soul. Fifteen is also an occult number, so the occult could be drawing you now. This number could herald a tumultuous, rambunctious and exciting time, but ultimately beneficial. It may be too much excitement and change for some, but exciting new possibilities now seem possible.

666—evil. If there's one number worse than the double-6, it's the triple-6. This indicates a fundamentally-warped person or situation, an anti-spiritual orientation at heart. This person or situation just draws negativity to itself. This can indicate a karmic problem; making the same negative choices lifetime after lifetime and not learning the lesson, harming self or others as a result. As 666 is very bottom-heavy number, and bound to the material, the only way out of this is by consciously working on one's spiritual development and asking one's Higher Self or a Higher Power to assist in this, asking for a hand-up, as it were.

777—this is the number of creative transcendence, and a creative regeneration in some part of a person's life can be expected when the spinning-tool chooses this number. This indicates a Divine Intervention of some sort. Angels are at work to influence one's life, life's work, or destiny. A surprising communication, message or development can come from 'out of the blue' and change your life. Expect magic and miracles when this number is the spinner's target, for you are blessed and loved. Rejoice, and remember to thank any and all Unseen Friends who have come forward to assist you in this manner.

888—upheaval and chaos. What fresh Hell is this? If the spinner chooses this number, expect that life will be in a degree of upheaval and chaos for the person inquired-about. Things will inexplicably fall apart or fail to operate. Communications systems can go awry or fail to operate. Messages can be garbled or lost or misunderstood altogether. If a major purchase is in the works, it will be a lemon. And something else: this number can indicate an environment ripe for martyrdom, so if the spinner has chosen this number, it could indicate a person with a martyr-complex, someone with-whom the inquirer is having to deal. Rely on your family and spiritual resources to get through this. Once this tough lesson is learned, this challenge met, this trying time will pass and life will become easier.

999—immobility. This number indicates that the couch potato has rotted, if it didn't get up and work to improve things. This is an unconscious, practically comatose person. The burdens are so heavy, there doesn't appear to be any way out of things. Someone may not be answering their phone. Any stagnation can lapse into immobility if left unattended. If retiring some day sounds wonderful, this number is warning that retirement can bring the danger of stagnation, then immobility. Have new plans, goals, or even a second-career in mind before retiring. The message here is crystal-clear: get up off your behind and expend energy, get moving again! You've spent too much time doing nothing. So long as we are alive on the physical plane, there is work we need to do. There is a real risk of health problems, even physical paralysis, if this message is not acted on promptly.

Other Significant Numbers

You will have noticed on this gyromancy chart that there are other, unique compound-numbers in the smallest triangular spaces. For this reason, the inquirer is less-likely to have their spinning-tool land on these numbers, but these numbers possess particular energies and significant messages the inquirer would do well to heed, should the spinner ever land on one of them.

13—Difficulty is the fundamental message of this number. Thirteen has long been regarded as an 'unlucky' number, but it isn't unlucky, just difficult. $1 + 3 = 4$; so to give you a visual, this is the one person at the office who can creatively, innovatively, and reliably be counted-upon to un-jamb the computer printers or the office photocopier. This is the same person who can reliably get the appliances in the break room to operate. All this, on top of their other duties. One and three are masculine-energy numbers, four is a feminine-energy number, so there's a fundamental conflict there, a 'rub', and the feminine energy can feel 'ganged-up-on.' This number suggests that one's hard work is feeling like hard-luck, and if that's the case, there are two choices: stick with the hard work for however long it takes, or bring in another energy into your life to help you out of this mess.

17—Stress is indicated here. $1 + 7 = 8$, so this has the same problem as 13, a conflict between masculine and feminine numbers. One is the number of the individual, and seven is the number of the student, the scholar, the mystic; they are solitary, do-your-own-thing numbers. Together they add up to 8, a feminine number, which is the number of material success, accomplishment, recognition, and public acclaim. There is a possible conflict here between one's spiritual growth and one's current actions, and what results from those actions. There needs to be a serious re-evaluation here. Any activities which are not compatible with one's spiritual values need to be released. At the very least, there is a need to achieve harmony between the two.

18—Great burdens and many tasks to complete are what this number portends, according to numerologist Amie Angeli. $1 + 8 = 9$, so another masculine number/feminine number-rub is present. One is the number of the individual and initiative, but 8 is the number of resonance, which requires a certain amount of energy in order to keep the resonance up and running. Add them together and the result is 9, a number which physically resembles a person bent-over from carrying a heavy load on their backs. 18/9 is the compound and primary number of the individual who strives for great personal success and achieves it, but then must turn and share the fruits of their success with others. Eighteen is a number of leadership, but there is a danger of it becoming dictatorial. In such cases, they must remember that leadership is ultimately in service to others—the nine.

23—Transformation; this is a dynamic, revitalizing number. Receiving input and creating something new from it. This is the sort of change which starts from the Higher Self, then radiates through all levels of being to create radical change in the way one operates going forward. Energy can change, as if by magic, from one form to another when the spinner chooses this number. This number can indicate the sort of person who extracts the best from people, because they can see talents in others those others can't see in themselves (i.e., a talent agent). The only downside to this number is a tendency to be seen as fickle and noncommittal. This is also the number of someone whose partner, either lover or spouse, tries to tell them who their friends should and shouldn't be.

27—Nurturance; literally, this is the number of a partnership to which much attention is given. When this number is chosen, someone or something needs extra-attention and nurturing, whether it's an infant, a child, a partnership, or even oneself. You may be called-upon to identify who or what in your environment needs extra tender loving care. Or you may be called-upon to pay attention to your own needs; not wants, mind you, needs. You may need to learn how to pamper yourself, and re-arrange your priorities which put your needs first. All too often, this number indicates shopaholics and spendthrifts who are trying desperately to fill a need for nurturance by buying things, whether they're needed or not. This can indicate a person who is soft, caring, wise and spiritual. Such people can draw to them either people in need of therapy, or those who mistake their kindness for weakness.
