

A year of steady progress & smooth-sailing, which should have you feeling good about your life & your future by year's end.

A seemingly negative event, a loss or a setback of some kind, will prove in the long-run to have worked out in your favor.

A sudden, shocking event. Something from out of the blue, like a lightning strike on a clear day, from which it will take you a long time to recover.

A year dealing with health issues. If you're still in perfect health, consider this a warning to begin good health habits in order to make sure you stay that way.

A make-or-break year regarding a love affair, a partnership or a friendship. Either the two weather the storm, or they split & go their separate ways.

An important new relationship enters your life. It could be a new lover or a new friend, but it will enrich your life in many ways.

A year with some periods of rough water ahead, & you will have no choice but to hang on & shoot the rapids. Rest assured, you will eventually make it to calmer waters.

This is really going to be a 'no-news' sort of year for you. Nothing important happening. Think of it as a 'breather' sort of year. We need those every now and then.

If you have been working long, hard, steadily, or persistently at something, this is the year when you will see your efforts start to pay-off.

Your own life will be an oasis of calm, while turbulence swirls all around you. Be the steady rock for others seeking shelter from the storm.

A weird, odd, unusual, uncanny, or even paranormal event, which will have you questioning what you think of as 'reality'.

A year where you will be seeing hints, omens or signs of an important future development in your life. No real movement yet, just 'signs'.

A year for study. Either actual academics, or a school-of-hard-knocks year. But by year's end, you will have learned something, & become a better, stronger you.

You will take up an absorbing new interest or hobby, which will bring you unexpected side-benefits as well. You may even eventually make a career of it.

You will rise in the world this year. A promotion, a pay-raise, a graduation, an unexpected material gain, or a granting of some honor. Whatever it is, for a moment, it's your turn to shine.

You will undergo a spiritual transformation this year. You could change religions, or add a new spiritual practice to your already-existing practices.

You will travel to a destination which will have a profound effect on you. It will be a trip you will remember for a long time to come.

You may decide to take up a martial art, or learn about various kinds of weaponry & how to use them. You may get good enough to enter competitions. At least, think about it.

This may be a good year to go on a spiritual retreat of some kind. You may suffer burn-out at some point, & need to recharge your batteries.

You will be travelling more than once in the coming year, & for pleasurable reasons, although there may be an obligation or two in the mix.

There's going to be a confrontation at some point this year. This can be a good thing. Confrontations can spark needed changes.

You're going to be involved in a power struggle of some sort this year. You may or may not resolve it by year's end, but count on it ~ it will eventually be resolved.

You may have to commit some of your time, energy or money this year to aid of a family member or good friend.

An unpleasant revelation about someone or some cause you thought honourable or 'solid' will have you re-thinking your allegiance & convictions.

A year to explore or study the arts. There may be one for which you find you have a particular talent, & this could bring you future opportunities.

A death, either of a person, or some part of yourself which is no longer tenable, will happen this year. Stay with the ashes & await a re-birth.

Something which started out looking great, something which looked like a lucky-break or a sweet gain, will reveal itself to have been the exact opposite by year's end.

Somebody else's loss in the coming year will be your gain. Sad for them, glad for you.

You may have to let something go this year. If it's truly yours, it'll come back to you. Otherwise, consider it a necessary loss. Spirit loves space to bring in new things.