

The Discs of Fate

Assembly: Print out this sheet on good-quality cardstock. Cut out the discs, cutting carefully around the numbered projections on each. Poke a hole through each small circle in the center of the four discs (a sharp pencil tip is good for this). Nest the discs together in such a way that the disc with the lucky symbols is on top. Fasten all four discs together with a brad-clip fastener (available wherever office supplies are sold).

How to Use: Arrange the discs so that the cut-out section of the lucky symbols disc is positioned at 12 o'clock. Arrange the other three discs so that the arrowed projections are aiming at 3 o'clock, 6 o'clock and 9 o'clock respectively. When you have everything positioned correctly, decide which of the three categories of interest to which you want an answer. Then, positioning your finger by any of the arrowed projections, move your finger around the disc in a clockwise direction, moving the arrowed projections along with it, making three or four complete circuits of the disc. The choice of which arrowed-projection to start with, and whether to make three or four circuits is, of course, up to you, but you should stop where you started. When you have done this, there should be one or more numbers aligned in the cut-out window at the top of the surface disc, the one with the lucky symbols. Add up the numbers if there's more than one, then consult the relevant list of fortunes on the following page.
