

Showers' Numerology

Since most of the forecasts you'll make from this system depend on the alpha-numeric table you will need to use to translate letters to their numeric equivalents, below is the alpha-numeric table:

Showers' Alpha-Numeric Chart

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
A	E	B	C	F	J	I	G	H
M	L	K	D	N	R	P	O	S
X	T	V	Q	U	Z	W	Y

Like the Chaldean alpha-numeric chart, the letter's number-values in this chart are not distributed in alphabetical order, and the name you commonly use is taken into consideration in the personality delineation. Like the Pythagorean chart, this chart uses all nine primary numbers, and the formal name at birth is also taken into consideration in the personality delineation.

There are five numbers which Paul Showers lists as important for an effective description of the subject's character and fate, most of which are to be derived from this chart. They are as follows:

A – The Personality Number. This could also be termed the Surface-Level Personality Number or the Interpersonal Relations Number. This number is derived from the numeric value of the familiar name that most people know and call you by. For example, if your given name is Christopher or Christina, but most people know you as Chris, then this number is derived from Chris. If your surname is Ankylosarus, but most people know you by 'Anky' then you'd use 'Anky.' This number reflects how you come across to people and how you relate to others.

B – The Vocational Number. This number says something important about your most-likely field of work in life. It's best if it harmonizes with the other numbers. This number is derived from your full name, as it appears on your birth certificate, first, middle, and last, or surname.

C – The Destiny Number. Also known as your Monogram Number, this number is derived from the initials of your full, formal name at birth. This number is the one which has the most direct influence on your happiness in life. It can be a great help in finding happiness in whatever situation life has placed you. Ideally, it should harmonize with the other numbers.

Showers' Numerology, con't.

D – The Spiritual Number. This might be better known as the Deep-Personality Number, for it reflects the basic, unchanging personality traits the subject was endowed with at birth, both positive and negative. This number is derived from the day, month and year of birth. Ideally, this number should harmonize with the previous three. Over the course of a lifetime, the traits indicated by this number can be modified by personal experience or a name change, but these traits are always present in the character, whether active or dormant.

E – The Mystic Number. This might also be known as the Particular Fate Number, since it speaks of a specific turn-of-events destined at some point in life for the subject. This number is derived from adding together the numbers derived from the subjects full, formal name + their Monogram Number + their year of birth, reduced to a single digit, then that sum is multiplied by 2. Your year of birth never changes, but if you were to change or alter your name for any reason, then your Vocational, Destiny and Mystic numbers would all need to be recalculated. For this reason, it's possible to have two or more Vocational, Destiny, and Mystic Numbers over the course of a lifetime. Of course, if you never change your name, you have only one Mystic Number.

Table of Personality Numbers

The personality number is derived from the numerical value of the name most of your friends and acquaintances know you by. It governs or modifies your relationship with those around you and has particular significance regarding love and friendship. It is fundamentally how you come across to people, what sort of person you appear to be.

- 1—This person is likely to be the center of a large group of friends. This is a friendly number, which imbues its holder with enthusiasm and good spirits. A naturally sociable and warm-hearted person will find it strengthens these traits, while a person otherwise tending to be shy and retiring will find it helps them overcome their natural timidity. One helps create a coterie of admirers and loyal followers—they're natural leaders—but it also intensifies the hatred of enemies. In love matters, this number indicates its holder feels powerful affection, sometimes to the point of feeling possessive and tending to dominate the partner to a notable degree.
- 2—This person is a good conversationalist, and they generate an air of general affability and friendliness. They are tactful and kind, not argumentative nor sarcastic, and this trait helps them attract friends. But this same gentle, amiable spirit also makes them particularly sensitive to criticism. They have a very romantic disposition, and their affections are very easily stirred. It's a favorable number for love affairs, and this person may well have had a number of them.
- 3—This person is likely quite sociable, as this number generates an atmosphere of good feeling and generosity. They always welcome company, and for this reason, they are eager to lend a helping hand or cheer up someone with the blues. They can generate a spirit of generous friendliness, which is hard to resist. For those with any introverted tendencies in their make-up, this number helps them be more outgoing. In love matters, it inclines the holder to a very deep, passionate number, not light or passing affections, although three has been known to draw into their orbit more than one would-be lover.
- 4—This plain brown wrapper of a person is inclined to put business before pleasure. People under its influence are sometimes tempted to bury themselves in work, either because they consider socializing a waste of time, or it's because they are naturally on the shy side, and socializing is uncomfortable for them. Mr. or Ms. Excitement, they are not, and they don't make new friends or acquaintances easily. At a social event, they'd feel more at-home behind the bar serving drinks or behind a table, serving food or receiving guests—you know, something useful. In love matters, they are cautious and hesitant, but on the other hand, they would be a good stabilizing influence for someone with a headstrong, fiery disposition.
- 5—This number indicates a person who loves change, movement, travel, and excitement. They're always up for an adventure. They have great personal charm, and they make friends and win hearts with little or no effort. The downside is, they are also changeable, unstable and notoriously fickle. In love, their initial warm-hearted devotion cannot be counted on to last. They waver between enthusiasm and indifference and ultimately, they leave a trail of broken hearts behind them wherever they go. Still, they are stimulating company while it lasts.

- 6— This person is notable for their loyalty and devotion. They have the home-loving, steadfast qualities of the domestic type, and they make for a good spouse and a great parent, since they bring the qualities of faithfulness and unselfish love into their closest relationships. This person is likely to win true friends because of his helpful, considerate manner. Though it's not a paint-the-town-red sort of number, this person favors a quiet sociability, the sort who would rather have a smallish number of invited guests over for dinner or a cook-out.
- 7— This person has a serious, quiet, thoughtful disposition, who actually prefers to live by themselves most of the time. Not a sociable number at all, this is the number of the scholar or mystic. If there is one number most likely to live the solitary life, this is it. Though they don't have a talent for making new friends, they will likely have a small number of deep and lasting friendships, which they should take care to acquire and more importantly, keep. Number seven personalities can be tactless; they often blunder socially and do things which can be misunderstood by those around them. The friends they acquire and keep are likely to be the serious, quiet, thoughtful types like themselves.
- 8— This person has an ambitious streak and displays a spirit of determination which, in matters of love and friendship, can go far in overcoming bad first impressions. With people they're not particularly interested in, they can be abrupt and uncivil; like sevens, they tend to lack tact. But if they should discover that someone they've been curt to is a person whose acquaintance can be useful to them, they'll exert themselves until they are forgiven. They will oftentimes fall in love with someone far above them in social position, marry against the advice of their friends, and achieve great happiness with their partners when all the odds seemed to be against it. They may also tend to seek friends above their social position.
- 9— This person is subject to very intense emotions. They make friends easily, as this is a number of great personal magnetism, and they can draw people to them. Their greatest danger lies in the ardent and passionate nature of the number nine. Unless it's kept under control, the nine tendencies in them can be a destructive force, overpowering their will and judgement, which can lead to tragedy. Nine is the number of endings and culminations, so they will not hesitate to bring a relationship to a close, if they feel it's necessary. In love matters, their affection is fierce and deep; they would never be happy with someone whose affections are light-hearted, changeable and fickle.

This is the number which can either help or hinder a person in their career, work, or life's purpose. It is found by adding-up the numbers of the person's full, formal name, the one which appears on birth certificates or baptismal certificates. A married woman should use her first, middle and married surname in calculating this.

- 1—This number is favorable to many types of independent and original work. It offers special assistance to those who are in some sort of planning or designing occupation. One favors the person who tries to perfect a new way of doing things, or develops a new kind of machine, device or software. Researchers, mathematicians, teachers, and lecturers are all benefitted by the vibrations of this number, as are those people who go into business for themselves. Anyone who is trying to do something which has never been done before will be aided in his or her efforts by this influence.
- 2—This is the number of tact and diplomacy. Therefore, anyone who is in charge of arbitration or mediation, such as judges, professional arbitrators, or actual diplomats, are all favored by this number. Two also has a helpful effect on those who deal with large numbers of figures—think Bureau of Labor Statistics, economics departments at universities and the like; or one those whose work is connected with cataloguing or filing in anyway—think librarians and administrative assistants. It engenders sound and wise judgements in those under its influence, and it endows them with patience and keen insight into all kinds of business or commercial enterprises.
- 3—This is the number of occupations which involve a great deal of contact with the general public. Thus, occupations favorable to this number are all manner of performers, either actors or musicians, salespersons, public relations, publicists, advertising, radio, or writers. This number is favorable for those who feel the need for self-expression in their work, and are unable to perform well at monotonous jobs, or any occupation which doesn't call for enthusiasm and energy. The more cautious, plodding type of personality may find the vocational energy of this number to be unsettling or even irritating.
- 4—This is the number of industry and constructive work. It's favorable for the engineer, the builder, construction workers, city planners, craftsmen and mechanics. It's also favorable for anyone who works in a factory or large industrial plant which produces finished goods of any sort. Enterprises which require a combination of shrewd intelligence and dogged persistence are also natural fits for the number four, so the legal profession, government work, and elective office may also be represented here. This is not the vocational number for artistic endeavors or any occupation where a vivid imagination is needed, so anyone with a personality number of three might find this a challenging or abrasive number to deal with.
- 5—This is the number of the go-getter, the chance-taker, the big-thinker and the adventurous type. This is not the number for any job which involves routine. This number lends itself to freelance work, travel-related occupations, investor, stockbroker, explorer, delivery-person, or any other occupation where a degree of risk or movement is involved. The person with this vocational number likely doesn't have a job which involves routine (or a steady paycheck) and if they do have such a job, they're likely unhappy about it.

- 6— This is the number of honest and devoted service. It is the ideal number for the homemaker or stay-at-home spouse. It is the number for the nurse, the mission-worker, social worker, or the dedicated support staff of a public official. It is the number of all who are engaged in positions of trust or responsibility for the welfare and lives of others. This is the number of all who feel drawn to the healing arts or public duty. The person with this vocational number is likely the reliable type, which enhances their chances of promotion to positions where authority and confidence are needed.
- 7— This is the number of all occupations where the person works by himself a great deal. Seven is the number of the lone wolf, the person who makes their way alone and unaided. This is the number of the artist or the freelance graphic designer. It is the number of the independent scholar or the one-person small business owner or consultant. It can be the park ranger or forest ranger who is out in the field a lot. As seven is a spiritual number, this can be the clergyperson, or a psychic reader or advisor who works alone, taking clients.
- 8— This is the number of ambition and the successful businessperson. It is a good vocational number for management in business, industry or finance. The person who possesses this vocational number finds appealing any job where they can attain a position of wealth and power in the face of great odds. Eight holds the promise of great reward in the long run, but it's not the number of quick-and-easy success. A double of four, eight can mean hard work over a period of many years and possibly many disappointments along the way, so it is not a good vocational number for those who lack persistence.
- 9— In business and commerce, this vocational number bestows shrewdness and cleverness. But in certain overly-enthusiastic personalities, it can manifest as cunning. This is a good number for those in the arts, but who are more interested in success than genuine merit. Nine brings out versatility and brilliance in its holders, but it sometimes results in a 'flashy' success, rather than lasting success. These people have imagination, but not the patience needed for the mastery of important details.

Possible augmentations (applicable only to those with a vocational number of 2 or 4)

- 11— More dreamer than doer, this person comes up with the idea that others work to flesh-out.
- 22— This person is likely to work at some large-scale project, or one of global importance at some point in their life.

Table of Destiny Numbers

Also known as your Monogram Number, the Destiny Number has an important influence on your general good or bad fortune in life, and how you can best fulfill your destiny, given the energy available to you, as indicated by your initials.

Ideally, this should harmonize with your personality, vocational, and spiritual numbers.

- 1— This number indicates a person who is fond of adventure, and of taking bold and daring action. Unconventional people in thought and deed, they enjoy exploring the possibilities of the new and untried. When reducing the word, 'Pioneer' to a single digit from the alpha-numeric chart provided, it unsurprisingly adds up to 1. The person with the one destiny number is always the first to lay-aside the old, standard way of doing things, try a new way of doing things, then when it works out for him, proclaim the advantages of progress and change. A person whose other numbers indicate he is sensitive to what others think of him would never be happy with a 1 Destiny Number.
- 2— This is a person who is happiest studying a question, problem or challenge from all possible sides before coming to a decision. This is a more conventional personality than the one, but that doesn't necessarily mean old-fashioned and anti-progress; he's always open to suggestion and will never turn a deaf ear on any reasonable argument. But he will make a change, or come to a decision, only after he's had time to thoroughly review the matter and is convinced of the proper response. This is a good destiny number for the helpful individual who likes working with others and is capable of taking criticism, as well as giving it.
- 3— This number indicates an enthusiastic, whole-hearted person who likes to express his feelings and share them with others. What the more restrained, common-sense types would consider frivolous and useless comforts and luxuries, the three destiny number person cannot live without. This person likely has a wide variety of interests, and are not the single-focus, ambitious type who's prepared to sacrifice everything for one goal.
- 4— This is an industrious type, who likes to keep busy and doesn't like being idle or wasting time. The number of efficiency and usefulness, it goes best with the matter-of-fact sort of person who both enjoys and takes pride in their work and in doing the best they can at a task. These practical-minded persons always pay particular attention to details which the more careless type would overlook. People with this destiny number would be happiest if their personality and vocational number harmonize with the number four. This is not a good destiny number for someone of a flighty or restless temperament.
- 5— This person places the greatest value on his or her personal freedom and freedom of action. This indicates a person with an energetic, variable temperament, one who demands change and variety, and who feels stifled when they are forced to adhere to a set-pattern or a fixed way of doing things. Those whose personality or vocational number indicates a person who places security and peace of mind above all other considerations would be uncomfortable having five as a destiny number. In such people, this number would inspire feelings of anxiety, rather than happiness.

- 6— This is the number of the solid citizen, the civic-minded person who's proud to be the type who's ready and willing to take part in any work which will serve to improve the community at large. They are the sort who will attend town or city council meetings, PTA or school advisory councils, and may even serve on such boards. This being the number of cooperation, it favors the man or woman who likes to be part of a group undertaking where responsibility is shared and all are working toward a common goal. It's especially suited for those persons who are willing to undertake tasks for which there is little recognition or reward, and who carry-on quietly, while others garner all the attention and praise.
- 7— This destiny number indicates a person who is fond of solitude, and who spends a great deal of time in thought. This person strives constantly for perfection in all things, sometimes to the point of impracticality, as he or she is not easily satisfied, and they will refuse to accept anything which is less than perfect. The less-exacting individual might be willing to compromise a little on his or her ideal, but the seven-destiny-number type of person would always rather do without, than compromise and make do with the status quo. This is not a good destiny number for one whose other numbers indicate an active, lively, out-going, light-hearted personality; it will feel too 'heavy' for them.
- 8— This number best-favors a person who can combine their idealism with practicality. This is the number of the person who sets a goal for him or herself, then plugs away tirelessly until they achieve that goal. If they have built their castle in the air, they build the foundation under it, no matter how daunting the challenge. The eight destiny number holder may have to alter their standards or compromise every now and then, in order to resolve an issue-of-the-moment, but they will stick with the problem until it has been solved to their satisfaction. They will then carry-on toward their main goal. This is the best destiny number for the person who is on fire with the ambition to achieve wealth and success, and is ready to sacrifice everything to achieve them.
- 9— The nine vibration is particularly powerful, and it bestows abundant energy and inspiration on those with this destiny number. It is suited to the person who is recognized as a leader among his fellows. These people are happiest when they're planning on a broad scale and making decisions which will affect the welfare and fate of a great number of people. This destiny number is best for people who can speak fearlessly to large crowds and who enjoy the activity and excitement of public affairs. For a politician, this is an ideal destiny number to have. For someone whose personality and vocational numbers indicate a peaceful, quiet, domestic sort of person who works tirelessly in the background, this destiny number would make them miserable.

Table of Spiritual Numbers

Also known as the Conscience Number or Life Path Number, your spiritual number is the sum of the numbers in your birthdate. It reflects those basic, unchangeable personality traits we were endowed with at birth, both our strong points and our faults. This number is unchanging, unlike the previous three, which are name-based numbers.

- 1—On the positive side, this person is able to maintain their independence of mind. They are blessed with a strong will that can resist undesired suggestions or temptations. They think for themselves, and can make decisions without being influenced by others. They can be counted on to do what they think is right, regardless of others' opinions. They either take the lead or forge a new trail where none existed before, even if it means going alone. On the negative side, they need to guard against an assertive pride which can cause them to ride roughshod over others and try to rule them with an iron fist. They must learn to control their temper, particularly when it comes to taking orders from others.
- 2—'Live and Let Live' is this person's motto. On the positive side, this person is tolerant; they mind their own business. They are honest and humble-enough to give credit to others where credit is due. They have a fundamental urge to be helpful and cooperative without trying to boss everybody around. This person is capable of overlooking great faults in others. On the negative side, they are inclined to be overly-critical in matters of unimportant detail. They need to guard against impatience and pettiness in situations where it would be better for them to overlook minor shortcomings.
- 3—On the positive side, this person has a generous, forgiving nature. They are very sympathetic to the troubles of others, and they shun all that is petty and mean. This person has an easy-going nature and they remain calm in the face of adversity. This person doesn't easily become plagued with feelings of worry. On the negative side, this person may at times be too easygoing. They can become careless, indifferent, or lacking the necessary concentration and determination when an unpleasant-seeming duty demands it. They're also inclined to overindulge in all kinds of sensual delights, whether it's food, sex or recreational chemicals.
- 4—On the positive side, this person has a basic urge to be orderly and businesslike in the conduct of their life. They follow the rules and laws and are solid citizens. They show responsibility and have a basic liking for work, provided it's work they like. On the negative side, they lack imagination, which can stand in the way of real progress and advancement. They also have to guard against a fundamental desire to stay in a rut, to be a drudge or a stick-in-the-mud. They fundamentally fear of a loss of position or rank, so they may resist taking the chances and risks which might otherwise enable them to achieve great things. They have to be reminded: 'nothing ventured, nothing gained.'
- 5—On the positive side, this person takes a determined approach to the problems of life. They have a basic curiosity about life, which indicates a healthy and active mind. They show imagination and resourcefulness in the face of danger and obstacles. On the negative side, they're more apt to make good resolutions than to carry them through to a successful conclusion. They tend to be hasty and to act without sufficient forethought. Unreliability is a basic sin with the five birth number.

- 6—On the positive side, this person has a courage born of inner convictions. They have the ability to see through falsity and shams. They hold to that which is good and true, even in the face of temptations. They are loyal to deep-rooted ideals, and they possess a self-confidence which gives them strength and purpose. On the negative side, there is a danger of their being too obstinate. They may feel an urge to argue too much over small points. They're inclined to worry too much, and indulge in fears about the future. They must also guard against indulging in self-pity and assuming the attitude of the martyr without cause.
- 7—On the positive side, this person has great breadth of vision, and a good comprehension of life's problems and trials. They have a talent for analyzing characters and situations and judging them for their true worth. This person will always strive to be completely honest with him or herself, and he or she will probably be their own severest critic. On the negative side, their clear and judicial outlook likely lacks a sense of warmth and sympathy for human frailties. They may at times be accused of having a 'holier than thou' attitude, although it's likely just a side-effect of being their usual critical, analyzing self.
- 8—On the positive side, this person has the stick-to-it-iveness and persistence to keep working until a goal is reached. They do not compromise with imperfection, for only the best is demanded and accepted. This person has the innate ability to command the respect and attention of people around him. On the negative side, the eight person make come across and snobbish and unfeeling toward those whose talents do not equal his. The eight should guard against sacrificing the feelings of others in order to attain his goal; ruthless ambition could well be one of his (or her) most persistent sins.
- 9—On the positive side, this person displays a great warmth of emotion; their feelings rule in many of their decisions in life. They desire to love and be loved, and have a great appreciation for the feelings of others. The finer instincts of their nature can be easily appealed-to, but this leads to their negative-side list of traits, for being vulnerable to having their better-angels appealed-to can lead them to sorrow or unwise moves. This trait makes it too easy for them to become the dupe of unscrupulous people. This person should guard against letting their feelings get the better of their reason.

NOTE: All these traits listed for each of the nine primary numbers may be modified or counteracted to some degree by the name-based numbers for the personality, vocation, and destiny of the person in question, but the traits listed, both positive and negative, will always be present in the person's character, because they were born with these traits.

The Mystic Numbers most likely come to us from the Chaldeans, and the ancient Egyptians also knew of them and used them. Your Mystic Number speaks of a particular event or fate destined to happen to you at some point in your life. This may be a one-time thing, or it could be an on-going thing or a recurring problem, so your Mystic Number in the following pages can offer you valuable advice for dealing with the particular fortune destined for you.

Be aware that changing your name at any point in your life will also change your Mystic Number, and may also change the other name-based numbers, necessitating a revamp of the subject's profile. The Mystic Numbers run from 8 to 90. There are no Mystic Numbers 7 and below, or 91 and above. If, after working out the sum for your Mystic Number and if need-be multiplying by 2, you come up with a result which is either 7 and below, or 91 and above, then you have likely done something wrong. Re-check your calculations.

- 8—If you refuse to allow anything to shake your self-confidence, and you maintain your will against all obstacles, then you will realize your ambition. Just take care that no one suffers an injustice because of your efforts to attain your goal, come what may. Trust your head, rather than your heart.
- 9—There is nothing to prevent you from getting ahead except You. Don't fail for a lack of willpower—either do the right thing, or refrain from doing the wrong thing. Keep your plans and opinions to yourself, at least while you're still working on them. Don't reveal them until the project is complete and secured, for the world is full of people who are ready to steal ideas as well as money.
- 10—Be sure that whatever you wish for in life lies within the realm of possibility for you. To wish for something that would be impossible for you to accomplish will only set you up for sorrow, and may lead to a loss of fortune or position. Pie-in-the-sky daydreams have ruined more than one otherwise-promising career.
- 11—You're destined to face several struggles in your life. First, be sure that you're not the one who's in the wrong. Do not let strong feelings get in the way of honestly trying to find out all the facts. Second, once you know you're right, don't hesitate. Go into the battle wholeheartedly. If you win your battle, you'll feel great satisfaction. If you lose the battle, at least you'll be honored for having fought the good fight.
- 12—Guard your actions carefully, and in moments of crisis, never hesitate—act. Train yourself to make immediate decisions in the small, routine things of daily life, because some day your life or fortune may depend on quick-thinking on your part. There is nothing you can't master if you put your mind to it. Remember that, when life seems like an overcast day.
- 13—Before you realize the fulfillment of your wishes, you must first acquire more knowledge. That's it. A proper education, in whatever form it may take, is the key to attaining your goals and wishes.

- 14—You're going to be successful in some action you take at some point in your life—but be careful. Your happiness at this success may be followed by sadness and trouble. Remain alert, in order to avoid disaster and a reversal of fortune.
- 15—You will be confronted with a serious personal problem at some point in your life. Don't react in haste, but instead ask advice from someone you can trust, and give the matter some serious thought yourself. You may be sorely tempted, and more than once, to speak your mind, but keep your thoughts to yourself. Remember that actions speak louder than words.
- 16—Be certain there is no dishonor connected with a certain goal you're striving for, or that in your efforts to achieve it, you're not going to be led into unworthy thoughts or actions. Then stick to your objectives, come what may, and one day you will realize not only happiness, but also power and possibly fame.
- 17—There will, at some point in life, be obstacles looming ahead of you which will appear to be overwhelming. You will have to face problems which will appear to have no solution. However, these problems will seem to you to be much worse than they really are. Keep that in mind, take your courage in hand, act boldly, and you will find that your troubles will vanish like fog on a spring or summer morning.
- 18—At some point in your life, you will to be called-upon to make a great sacrifice, with little chance that the magnitude of it will be fully appreciated by those around you. It may also happen in connection with this great sacrifice that you will have been wronged, and you will later have the choice of either forgiving the wrong or seeking revenge. It will be up to you to decide of course, but remember that hate often destroys the hater.
- 19—At some point in your life, you're going to be greatly disappointed in some person or event. You expected more, and they let you down. It will be hard for you to control your feelings, or to refrain from reproaches or bitterness. But if you can restrain your natural impulse to give vent to your feelings, there will be some unexpected happiness for you.
- 20—Guard against distractions and influences which may lead to you waste your energies. You're going to face a test, which will call for all the endurance and determination you can muster. If you haven't permitted yourself to become over-tired and spiritually worn-out as well as physically worn-out, you will come through the test with flying colors and your wishes will be realized.
- 21—You will have to remain on the lookout against a temptation which will come in an unexpected form; you won't recognize it as such at first. One key identifier of the temptation is, your emotions will be violently aroused in some way. But be cautious and control yourself. If you don't, your very life may eventually be imperiled.

- 22— Unless you make a drastic change in your ways, you're going to suffer a grave loss in either fortune or position, because of vanity, unwise and reckless enterprises undertaken without an appropriate degree of forethought, and downright carelessness and indifference to the consequences of your actions.
- 23— You will achieve success after you have undertaken further coursework in some sort of educational institution. The measure of your success will depend on how well you apply yourself to your studies, and how completely you're able to shut-out certain distracting influences which will surround you.
- 24— This number signals danger. At some point in life, you're going to be headed for trouble of some sort. There either are, or will be among your acquaintances, some who are pretending to be your friends, but who will actually be working against you in many ways which you won't even suspect. Be on the lookout for flattering words, and what appear to be extremely generous offers for your benefit. They may be hiding the instrument of your downfall.
- 25— This number is a very favorable omen. There is happiness ahead for you, and it will be connected with love in some way. Be sure all is well at home, and that you don't express feelings that are not genuine and sincere. If you follow this advice, the happiness will be lasting. If you don't, you may find that the happiness fades away quickly.
- 26— Be careful not to become too smug and self-satisfied. You're in danger of getting into a rut that will lead you nowhere. If this doesn't appear to be connected to your life in any way, think again. Isn't there someplace in your life where you feel there's nothing to improve on, where you've done just about as well as anyone could? If there is, then this warning is for you. Take another look at that area of your life and see if you can make further improvement--before its too late.
- 27— Nothing but success is in store for you. You can have it all—fame, wealth, happiness—it only depends on how high you aim and how conscientious you are in your work. On the other hand, if you have no great ambitions, you won't realize great things. Just know that the potential is there, should you choose to seize it.
- 28— There are some dark clouds hanging over your future. At some point in your life, trouble will come suddenly and without warning. You will need the guidance of a friend or loved one to get through this. Much can be gained by prayer, also.
- 29— At some point in your life, you will need the assistance of someone in a position of power or authority, in order to transform your plans, wishes or goals from thought into success. Find this aid first, before you proceed any further with the work in question.

- 30— A person of the opposite sex, one whom you may not have met yet, is going to play a powerful role in your struggle to achieve a certain goal. This person is somewhat older than you (or if you're old, somewhat younger than you), and they will likely become a friend, not a lover. You will not achieve your goal until you have found this stranger.
- 31— Don't underestimate the difficulties which lie between you and the realization of your dream. They can be overcome, but not unless you're prepared to work very hard and refuse to be disheartened by temporary setbacks along the way. Don't expect any help from others. It all depends on you.
- 32— You're never going to get anywhere in life until you give up certain plans you'll have in mind, which you believe will lead to wealth. There is nothing valid in these plans, and you're wasting time and energy thinking about them and trying to put them into action. If you insist on going ahead with these plans, you're going to lose both money and a very fine opportunity.
- 33— At some point in your life, you'll be best-advised to stick with your present line of work, whatever your dissatisfactions may be, and do it faithfully. You're going to have a lucky inspiration, which will turn out to be of great benefit to you. It'll be something that you might be inclined to laugh about first, but eventually you'll do something about it, and the most astonishing good luck will result for you.
- 34— You'll need to beware of some association you have in business or in your friends group at some point in your life. There will be trouble brewing, though it may not be the fault of any of your associates. You'll face very serious problems and your position in life will be in jeopardy. You're going to have to be very careful in your personal affairs, especially in matters concerning money.
- 35— Trust in your own ideas, and don't let others' laughter or attempts to discourage you dissuade you from pursuing them. You're going to do something that no one else has ever done before, and it's going to bring you wealth and happiness. Don't confide in too many people about your plans. It would be better not to tell them to anybody.
- 36— This number is a very lucky omen. You have nothing to worry about. Just keep on doing the work you're currently engaged in, and everything will turn out satisfactorily.
- 37— Anger management will be very important for you. A number of lucky breaks are destined to come your way, and these can advance you rapidly toward success. But there's a danger you'll ruin a piece of good luck by becoming enraged at the wrong moment. Anger is the trait most-likely to be your undoing, but it's also highly-advisable you shun vanity and self-admiration, for these two undesirable traits can also lead you to disaster of an unexpected sort.

- 38— Unless you show more determination and strength of character, especially shunning the trait of procrastination, you're going to suffer a great reversal of fortune. Be particularly suspicious of what seems to you to be good excuses for not getting things done immediately. For you more than for others, it is important to adopt the adage, 'don't put off for tomorrow what you can do today.'
- 39— Everything at present is favorable for your success and happiness. Intelligence, rather than force is going to help you surmount any obstacles in your path.

You may be destined to break-up with a job as well.
- 41— You're going to be connected with some sort of secret work having to do with government or science. It will rest largely with you whether the work turns out successfully. You'll have to choose your company carefully during the your time of employment in this field of endeavor, and will need to guard your speech against careless slips of the tongue.
- 42— You will travel a great deal. A number of journeys are indicated. At least one will be by land. As least one other will be by water. A third will be by neither, and it may end in either sadness or great joy. On the whole, these travels will be to your advantage and you will be very happy among friends and relations.
- 43— You will receive help and encouragement from a person of considerable power and authority at some point in your life. This friendship will come-along unexpectedly, and will grow to be one of the great influences on your life. Through this friendship you may realize success, though it will be entirely up to you whether you win fame or not.
- 44— Marriage, for you, is going to be most fortunate. With it will come honors, but probably later in life. You'll also receive the attention of a beautiful and intelligent woman who will prove to be a very devoted and loyal friend. She will give you three pieces of advice. You should follow the second and third pieces of advice she gives you, but not the first. You must never let her know that you're disregarding her first suggestion.
- 45— Unhappiness will come to you at some point in your life because of the failure of an engagement to result in marriage, although you may not necessarily be one of the parties involved. There is also going to be a great deal of difficulty and even danger for you because of the meddling and evil gossip of old women. Be especially wary of the interest of your elderly relations, as their interest could mean trouble for you.

- 46—There is much sadness in store for you, and a number of heartbreaks. You will lose a friendship which you had believed was loyal, but which was, in fact, based on flattery and duplicity. - 47—There is a danger that at some point in your life, your feelings will prevent you from seeing the true state of circumstances around you, and that you will meet with disaster through a hasty and ill-considered action. Strive for clarity and objectivity in all things.

- 49—Through the eyes of a little child, you will see real happiness, and a little kindness of yours will reward you a thousandfold, making a number of your most earnest wishes come true.
- 50—There's going to be an unexpected success waiting for you after a period of struggle and disappointment at some point in your life. Cherish your friends and don't let anything separate you from them, for they are going to play an important role in bringing-about the realization of your dreams.
- 51—Jealousy and suspicion may ruin romance and marriage for you, unless you're very careful about what you say and do. Great danger is in store for you in connection with love. You will be required to run a great risk, but you must have the courage to carry-on in the face of overwhelming obstacles. If you falter, tragedy may ensue.
- 52—Unless you heed the advice of those whom you trust, you are going to meet with a severe test. You're in danger of being misled by your heart. Think twice before making a decision which may alter the entire course of your life, especially in matters of love, for trouble may lie in wait in that direction.
- 53—A strange man will be directly connected with the success of one of your enterprises. If you're a woman, this will be a love relationship. Act discreetly, and you'll enjoy a happy home life. Act without due consideration, and you may bring great unhappiness on both yourself and him. If you're a man, this stranger may become a close friend, provided you don't let the success he will bring you go to your head, and turn you away from your loyal acquaintances.
- 54—Dishonor may be in store for you. If you are unmarried, be careful in choosing the person to whom you give your love. If married, be especially careful that you don't arouse anger or jealousy in your partner.

- 55— At some point in your life, a marriage—not necessarily your own—is going to bring you misery. You will receive the attentions of a person of the opposite sex, someone who is older than you are. Treat these attentions with all due reservation, for all is not well in this direction.
- 56— You are destined for a happy home life, with many children and lots of loyal friends. You may suffer a passing temptation for an old sweetheart from your youth. Don't yield to this temptation, for it would only bring you unhappiness and lead you to take a foolish step.
- 57— You will need to beware of people in positions which naturally compete with yours. There will be one such person who will pose as your friend, but who will actually be seeking to do you harm. You will have enemies anxious to bring about your downfall, but none of them will be so dangerous to you as this one pretended friend.
- 58— Your future at some point will appear dark and not completely clear. There is a woman who will bring you no good. There is also jealousy present, and the danger of a loss of reputation and honor. Prepare for great vexations and the failure of some cherished dream, possibly as a result of this woman's influence.
- 59— A person whom you possibly haven't met yet is going to have a great quarrel with you and become one of your bitterest enemies. Nothing will stop this person from trying to harm you. Avoid contact with firearms.
- 60— You will be called-upon, at some point in your life, to make a sacrifice for someone who is not particularly close to you. You're free to refuse, of course, but if you refuse, you may meet with misfortune from an entirely different direction. If you do make the sacrifice, it will be only a temporary setback to your plans, and in the long run, may prove to be the wisest course. For without knowing it, you will have frustrated the plans of people who will have evil intentions regarding your future happiness.
- 61— To attain what you desire, you are going to have to take a great risk. There is something connected with your home life which will serve you in good stead, and if you act wisely, it will be the means of overcoming dangers and winning what you want.
- 62— At some point in life, there will be trouble for you in matters of business. A dangerous rivalry may test all your powers of resistance. You will need courage, and above all, wisdom if you are to come through these trials unscathed.

- 63— At some point in life, you're going to be involved in a legal action of some sort, which will require either your actual presence, or the presence of your representatives, in a court of law. As long as you show no sign of retreat or weakness, you have a good chance of coming out on top and winning the case.
- 64— Be careful in the actions you take and the decisions you make in connection with persons around you. There is the danger that you will some day do something which you will regret for many years afterward. Make sure your motives are honest and free of selfishness or pride. Remember that some things done cannot be undone easily.
- 65— There's a grave temptation which fate has in store for you at some point. Also much sadness as a result of your failure to act decisively. All will be lost if you hesitate too long. At best, you're going to have to endure in the face of great disappointment and defeat. Train yourself to be disciplined and decisive.

But in the end, you will become a much greater personality for it.
- 68— There's a danger hanging over you which may involve a temporary upset of some sort. There's also a mystery which will need to be solved before you are freed from your trials. Things will eventually come out all right if you use your head. You may even be able to avoid this danger altogether, if you conduct yourself prudently.
- 69— You're not going to realize success immediately in life. There are going to be temporary triumphs, followed by setbacks and disappointments. In all of these ups and downs, you yourself are going to be largely responsible for the troubles which will beset you. Avoid overconfidence and being careless about details while you are enjoying good fortune, because it will be at such times that you will unwittingly pave the way for a subsequent period of bad luck.
- 70— You're destined to rise in the world, largely through the efforts of acquaintances of the opposite sex. But keep the relationship friendly and professional; you in particular must learn not to mix love with business. Remember that if your hands are full, your arms shouldn't be full at the same time.

- 72—There are hardships in store for you, most of which you will not be able to avoid in any way. You can look to your friends for assistance and encouragement, but you will triumph only by drawing on your own inner strengths. Don't give in to self-pity or fear, and let the world see you smiling at all times. Do this, and you'll overcome defeat by laughing in its face.
- 73—Money is going to bring you sorrow. If you persist in sacrificing everything else in life in order to amass a fortune, you'll eventually wind up in the poorhouse. You'll be far better off if you work on other aims, for in striving to achieve them, you may eventually come into peace and security. Do what you love, and the money will follow.
- 74—Pay no attention to those who may try to persuade you to give up your present way of life, telling you that fame and fortune lie in wait for you in some other direction. You're going to reach happiness and contentment only by following the path you're now taking, not the path others want you to take.
- 75—Your own personal enterprises aren't destined to prosper very well. Time and again, you'll lay careful plans, then see them come to nothing. But if you will take someone into your confidence and share your ideas with them, then you may find the success you seek through your joint efforts. It could be that marriage will bring you the fortune you would never be able to achieve alone. For you, partnership is what will lead to success.
- 76—Success is not destined to come to you without diligent effort. You may see others succeed without appearing to try very hard, but for you, the rule will be conscientious work and much self-denial and self-discipline. Some are destined to achieve success easily—you are not one of them.
- 77—Through the undergoing of many hardships, you will eventually arrive at a degree of wealth and happiness which will remain with you for the rest of your life. But in love matters, you may never realize all of your desires.
- 78—Beware of easy money. For anything you earn without great effort on your part will be taken away from you, in spite of doing everything you can do to prevent it. It's important that you learn to cultivate the habit of thrift, for otherwise, you might end up wasting what resources you have.

- 81— Success is going to come to you in some line of activity where you least expect it. It likely won't be in connection of whatever you're currently aiming-at. - 82— There is destined happiness in store for you as the result of a very mysterious set of events. But you would be wise to never let your curiosity get the better of you, and to inquire into the circumstances surrounding your unexpected good fortune. Let sleeping dogs lie. Don't look a gift horse in the mouth.
- 83— Take particular heed in any decisions you'll be required to make in connection with the sea or the air. Disaster may lurk where you least expect it. If you're wise and prudent, you may avoid these dangers and come into good luck.

- 85— Something very favorable is going to happen to you some day, as the result of a kindness you once performed without fully realizing what you were doing. You will gain new friends, and may even attain sudden and unexpected prominence as a result of this.
- 86— You're destined to come into some money, but it'll bring you no good, for it will not have been earned honestly. You would be wise to give half of it away to charity, for this will break the bad energy hanging over it. With the remainder, you may find happiness and contentment, secure in the knowledge that you did something good with the other half.
- 87— You will some day meet with a stranger who will give you an unexpected piece of advice. If you follow it, you will meet with an adventure in which your courage and wisdom will be tested. But if you act with discretion, good fortune will result.

- 89—You may hit a point in your life where the way ahead of you is not clear. At such a time, proceed cautiously in all situations which require you to make a decision, and do not heed the advice of your friends too frequently. Rely mainly on your own judgement during this uncertain time.
- 90—At some point in your life, you're going to find yourself allied with a large group of strangers in the pursuit of some common goal. If you are diligent, and prove yourself trustworthy and reliable, you may bring great distinction and honor to yourself.

REMINDER:

Your Mystic Number is the sum of your full, official name at birth, reduced to a single number for each part of the name, plus your Monogram Number, plus your year of birth reduced to a single digit then added-up and divided by 2. Your year-of-birth number, of course, will never change. But if, for any reason, you change your name, then your Vocational Number, Destiny Number and Mystic Number will need to be re-calculated, for all three will have changed.

If you re-marry after a first marriage and take on the next spouse's surname, they will need to be re-calculated yet again. In this way, the energy of your vocation, destiny, and mystic numbers can change throughout your life.
